Why Hotel, Hospitality & Culinary?

In India, hospitality management is one of the most in-demand professions. This is all connected to India's famous tradition, and Indians live by the code of "AtithiDevoBhava," which ensures that hospitality and catering to the needs of visitors will always be profitable. This industry contributes to the growth of India's hospitality, travel, and tourism industries. If students want to pursue a career in hospitality management in India with a hospitality degree course, they may be confused about the various options and where to pursue their education. The training and skill set required to work for the most prestigious names in the hospitality industry necessitates a top-tier education from top hotel management schools. Before students enroll in a hospitality management course, they need to consider the following key advantages of a hospitality management career in India. Hospitality management entails a thorough examination of the hospitality and hotel industries, as well as the travel and tourism industry.

A resort, hotel, or restaurant chain's administrative tasks are handled by a hospitality manager. He or she may check to see if a hotel is following state regulations, have any idea about the hotel laws, permits and licenses.

For example, it is necessary to have problem solving skills in order to keep the hotel chain function smoothly while reducing costs and providing guests with a memorable experience.

We have three to four common courses starting with 6 months to 1 year of craft courses or certificate course, 2 years diploma or undergraduate courses, 3-4 years of graduation courses and of course 2 years of integrated post-graduation or master's degree program with 6 months of Industrial Exposure or Industry Internships from reputed companies and service sectors.

Top Five Reason to join Hotel, Hospitality and Culinary ?

The hotel industry offers dynamic and rewarding career opportunities for students passionate about hospitality. Here are the top five reasons why pursuing a hotel management course can be the right choice for you:

Attractive and Lucrative Career

A hotel management degree prepares students for top-level executive and managerial positions. It opens doors to exciting entry-level jobs and international career opportunities. With the ever-growing hospitality sector, it provides long-term career stability and growth.

High Annual Packages

Hotel management is one of the few fields that offers attractive salary packages early in your career. Graduates trained in practical and theoretical skills are highly valued by employers for their ability to handle challenging tasks. Financial growth is achievable through experience and higher studies in the hospitality domain.

Various Specializations

Hotel management offers diverse career paths, allowing students to choose roles based on their interests, skills, and expertise, such as:

General Manager, Chef, Restaurant Manager, Catering/Event Planner, Front Office Manager, HR/Training Manager

Students can also pursue advanced studies to specialize further and increase their qualifications.

Development of Business Skills

Hotel management courses focus on both hard and soft skills essential for professional success.

Skills acquired include:

- Communication and leadership.
- Team management and critical thinking.
- Problem-solving and international business acumen.
- These skills are transferable across industries, enhancing career flexibility.

International Job Opportunities

The booming travel and tourism industry increases the demand for qualified hospitality professionals globally.

International hotel chains, airlines, cruise lines, and event management firms actively seek trained graduates.

Career opportunities extend beyond hotels to sectors like healthcare, retail, banking, and entrepreneurship.

The hotel industry offers a blend of creativity, growth, and financial stability, making it an excellent choice for students aspiring to build a successful career. From varied specializations to global opportunities, the industry ensures a fulfilling professional journey.

The Importance of Internships in Hotel Management

Nothing beats practical on-field training to gain immense knowledge and invaluable skills in the hospitality industry. Whether you're an aspiring hotel management student or someone already pursuing a hospitality degree, internships play a crucial role in shaping your career.

The hospitality and tourism industry thrives on a blend of academic knowledge and practical expertise. Managing hotel operations, cruise ship food services, or a restaurant's kitchen demands hands-on experience that cannot be acquired through classroom study alone. Simply earning a degree in hospitality management won't suffice to meet industry standards.

Why Are Internships Important in Hospitality?

The global hospitality industry is booming, especially post-pandemic, and employers are on the lookout for candidates with real-world experience. Practical training bridges the gap between theoretical knowledge and industry requirements. To meet these expectations, hotel management institutions partner with industry leaders to prepare graduates for leadership roles in the future.

Most hospitality courses now integrate internships as a mandatory component, offering students the opportunity to:

Gain exposure to real-world challenges.

Apply textbook knowledge in practical scenarios.

Build valuable connections in the industry.

Reflect on their career aspirations and identify areas of interest.

What Are Hotel Management Internships?

Internships in hotel management are short-term programs, paid or unpaid, designed to provide practical insights into hotel operations. They can be undertaken during or after your hospitality management course.

Departments Offering Internship Opportunities:

Front Office : Guest relations, check-ins and concierge services.

Housekeeping : Maintenance and cleanliness of rooms and public areas.

Food and Beverage Services: Restaurant management and customer service.

Bakery and Kitchen: Culinary preparation and innovation.

Finance: Budgeting, revenue management, and cost control.

Human Resources: Recruitment, training, and employee relations.

Banquet Sales: Event planning and management.

Common Internship Roles:

Operations Trainee • Business Development Executive • Hotel Management Trainee • Marketing Intern • Front Desk Receptionist • Human Resources Trainee • Admin Executive • Hospitality Recruitment Executive • Food & Beverage Trainee

Food Production Lab at SBIHM

The Food and Beverage Service is a vital component of the hospitality sector, offering dynamic career opportunities. At SBIHM, our Food Production Lab is designed to provide students with hands-on training and practical exposure, mirroring the operations of star-rated hotel kitchens and restaurants.

Key Highlights of the Food Production Lab

1. Modern Tools and Equipment:

Labs are equipped with the latest tools to facilitate comprehensive training. Mock bar setup and air-conditioned luxurious restaurant seating replicate real-world scenarios.

2. Specialized Sections:

The food production area is divided into three primary sections to cater to diverse culinary learning needs:

1. Basic Food Production Lab

Trains new students in foundational cooking techniques. Focuses on Continental and Indian cuisines.

2. Advanced Food Production Lab

Refines the skills of final-year students.

Specializes in international cuisines, sharpening budding chefs' expertise.

3. Bakery and Confectionery Section

Focuses on teaching the art of baking and confectionery. Students learn techniques for creating yeast products, pastries, and decorations.

Two dedicated bakery labs for 1st and 3rd-year students enhance their learning experience.

Training Restaurant at SBIHM Kolkata

SBIHM Kolkata takes pride in its two fully-equipped training restaurants that provide students with practical experience in food and beverage services. These training facilities are designed to bridge the gap between classroom learning and real-world application.

Key Features of the Training Restaurant

1. Expert-Led Training:

Students are trained by seasoned professionals in crafting cocktails and mocktails.

Food and Beverage Service Lab at SBIHM

The Food and Beverage Service Lab is an essential part of SBIHM's commitment to providing world-class training in the hospitality industry. This lab equips students with practical knowledge and skills required to excel in one of the most profitable and dynamic sectors of the hotel industry.

Key Responsibilities of the Food and Beverage Department

Ensuring Quality : Maintain high standards in food and service delivery.

Builds professionalism and interpersonal skills, key to a successful hospitality career.
Prepares students for real-world challenges, enabling them to excel in front office roles across global hospitality businesses.

At SBIHM, the Front Office Lab provides an unparalleled learning experience, preparing students to confidently manage the pivotal operations of any hotel.

Housekeeping Lab at SBIHM
Housekeeping plays a crucial role in ensuring the comfort, cleanliness, and aesthetic appeal of hotel rooms and public spaces. While it may be considered the 'back of the house' department, its impact on guest satisfaction is significant, making it an essential part of hotel management training at SBIHM.

Key Features of the Housekeeping Lab

1. Realistic Training Environment:

The lab is designed to provide hands-on experience, allowing students to simulate actual housekeeping operations in a professional setting.

2. Focus on Guest Comfort:
Students learn the intricacies of maintaining high standards of cleanliness and service across various hotel areas, ensuring guest satisfaction.
3. Specialized Areas of Training:
Laundry Operations: Training on the proper management of hotel laundry services.
Room Management: Students learn how to efficiently manage room setups, including cleaning, inventory, and guest requests.

Skills Developed in Housekeeping Lab

Attention to Detail: Training students to manage the smallest aspects of room preparation and cleanliness to ensure guest satisfaction.

Guest Interaction: While not directly front-facing, housekeeping plays a critical role in guest experiences.

Time Management & Efficiency: Understanding how to complete tasks promptly while maintaining quality standards.

Maintenance & Aesthetics: Learning the importance of upkeep and visual appeal in public areas and rooms.

The Housekeeping Lab at SBIHM ensures students are equipped with the skills and knowledge to meet the high standards of cleanliness and service required in the hospitality industry, making them capable professionals in hotel operations.

Computer Lab at SBIHM
The Computer Lab at SBIHM is an essential resource designed to enhance the students' technical proficiency, equipping them with the skills required to succeed in the ever-evolving hospitality industry.

Key Features of the Computer Lab

1. State-of-the-Art Equipment:
The lab is well-equipped with high-performance computers, latest machines, and powerful servers.
Multiple terminals are available with various operating systems to provide a comprehensive technical learning experience.
2. Internet Connectivity:
LAN and Wi-Fi connectivity is available throughout the lab, enabling students to access the internet for research, assignments, and industry updates.
3. Experienced Faculty Guidance:
Students receive continuous support and guidance from experienced faculty members to develop their software and hardware skills.

4. Exclusive Learning Outlet:
The institute provides an exclusive computer learning outlet for students to use, ensuring they have the resources to enhance their skills at their convenience.

Skills Developed in the Computer Lab

Industry Software Proficiency: Students are trained in various hospitality management software, learning tools relevant to the hospitality and tourism sectors (e.g., property management systems, reservation software).

Technical Competence: Enhances hardware and software skills, ensuring students stay updated on industry trends and technological advances.

Research & Management Tools: Students learn how to use advanced tools for data analysis, financial management, and digital marketing relevant to hospitality operations.

At SBIHM, the Computer Lab is a hub for students to enhance their technical knowledge, enabling them to effectively manage day-to-day operations and stay current with technological advancements in the hospitality industry.
